Give Up Week-End Holiday in Hope of Pushing Conference to an Early Conclusion.

LONDON, March 8.—Premier Chamberlain today urged the delegates to the naval conference to give up the week-end holiday in order to make as much progress as possible. There is considerable anxiety among the delegates, especially the Americans, over the diminishing amount of time left this month. Counting out the week-end, there are only 14 working days. Points to Be Cleared Up. Even Sunday will be utilized as the first time, Foreign Minister Briand and Prime Minister MacDonald having planned a meeting at that time. It was considered probable that the Briand-MacDonald meeting would permit once for all a clear understanding between the two sides. The first of these is that if France insists upon a total naval tonnage of 724,000 tons within five years, British fleet will have to be increased accordingly. The second is the extent of the political pact or arrangements which the French delegation has implied—but not actually suggested—would be alternative to the projected naval increases.

Report on Exempt Vessels. Part of the report dealing with exempt vessels has been accepted by the first committee and is ready for the plenary session. It makes two alterations in the draft agreement—first, that the speed limit on exempt ships is increased from 18 knots mentioned in the Geneva conference to 20 knots, and second, that exemptions for launch-carrying apparatus for launch-carrying vessels is limited to those that can launch only three or fewer.

It is understood the various conversations in which the French delegation has been engaged since the French delegation for a political guarantee of security which their tonnage figures will be contingent. It is declared the French have returned from the Geneva conference with the demand for a political guarantee and the conversations are expected to conclude with the possibility of concluding a mutual guarantee pact among the Powers with the United States possibly figuring, if at all, in a consultative capacity.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC MEASURE PASSED BY ALDERMEN

Ordinance Sponsored by Safety Council and the Automobile Club of Missouri to Mayor.

ELIMINATES BAR ON ALL-NIGHT PARKING

Where There Is Safety Zone Vehicles Need Not Stop but Shall Be Driven Past Cautiously.

The uniform traffic code, corresponding to the regulations adopted for adoption throughout the United States, was passed by the Board of Aldermen yesterday and now will go before Mayor Miller for approval or veto. There have been no indications that he would not sign the measure, which has been sponsored by the Safety Council and the Automobile Club of Missouri.

Several conflicting ordinances repealed by the new code, which however, consists largely of new regulations, and which starts with a long list of definitions of terms relative to traffic. The ordinance was adopted with the amendments made by the Aldermanic Legislative Committee, which eliminated prohibition of all-night parking and all-night driving on one-way streets. One of the most important rules of the code will require a vehicle following a street car to stop at the rear of the nearest car door when the car has stopped or is about to stop for passengers, and the vehicle shall not proceed until the passengers have boarded or reached "a place of safety." Where there is a safety zone, the vehicle may stop but shall be driven past cautiously. The present law permits a vehicle to pass a street car where there is no safety zone, provided there is eight feet clearance between car and vehicle.

The complete new code, which will be required to halt momentarily opposite the front of a street car stopped for passengers on a one-way street. Unless official markers or traffic policemen require vehicles to stop, the vehicle may proceed. The new code also provides for the use of safety zones, which may be established on either side of a street. Vehicles will be prohibited unless with the consent of the city engineer, a vehicle may be driven on a street where there is no safety zone, provided there is eight feet clearance between car and vehicle.

Other New Regulations. Other new regulations include: A vehicle may not enter a street where a street car has started to cross. Drivers must have car tracks upon a motorman's license. No one may board or alight from a moving street car or vehicle. Trains and street cars must not stop longer than five minutes except when in motion or while switching, and no train or street car may stop for passengers without an intersection or at a crosswalk.

Before crossing railroad tracks, street cars, public and school buses, motor trucks, carrying heavy substances and tractors must stop, look and listen.

Director of Streets and Sanitation will establish on the streets, bus stops and stands for taxicabs and other vehicles for which they will be of the greatest public benefit. No other vehicle may stop or park in a bus stop and no other vehicle may stop or park in a bus stop and no other vehicle may stop or park in a bus stop.

The general rule of keeping to the right in traffic is laid down in the code, with the particular application to streetcars and taxicabs, but provision is made for the use of a "left turn" lane on streets where traffic is heavy.

No Riding on Running Boards. Drivers must remain at least one foot behind fire apparatus answering an alarm and may not enter the block where apparatus was stopped for a fire alarm. No vehicle may cross unprotected fire hose without permission. No vehicle may be parked without stopping the motor and setting the brakes and where there is a perceptible grade the front wheels must be turned to the curb. Users of ice or roller skates, coasters, sleds and toy vehicles must keep off of roadways except in crossing. Bicycle and motor cycle riders must not cling to other vehicles and no one may ride on cycle handle bars, frames or tanks. Persons shall not ride on running boards, fenders, bumpers or other exterior parts of motor vehicles in motion except to determine the need of repairs or adjustments.

Issue Is Whether Theater Magnate Leaves Widow—Brother Says No, Attorney Max D. Steuer, Yes

NEW YORK, March 8.—Litigation over the millions of Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, theater magnate, was forecast today by contradictory statements as to whether he left a widow. Erlanger, 69 years old, died yesterday at his apartment on Riverside Drive.

The superintendent of the apartment building told reporters: "Mrs. Erlanger has issued instructions she is not to be disturbed by reporters or anybody else. The theater magnate's brother, Mitchell I. Erlanger, retired Justice of the State Supreme Court, said: 'There is no widow.' Max D. Steuer announced he had been retained as attorney for 'Mrs. Erlanger, in whose arms Abraham I. Erlanger died in the Riverside Drive apartment.'"

Steuer, informed Mitchell Erlanger's statement, said: "Every department store in New York has charge accounts in the name of Mrs. Erlanger with the Riverside Drive address." He added that he had records in New York and Atlantic City and transportation arrangements made by Erlanger's confidential employees also would make it easy to prove there was a Mrs. Erlanger. He estimated Erlanger's estate at $750,000.

At his death Erlanger was the largest individual owner and operator of legitimate theaters in the country. Formerly the firm of Klaw & Erlanger virtually controlled the drama, but the partnership was dissolved in 1919.

Besides a brother, Erlanger is survived by two sisters, Miss Ray Erlanger and Mrs. Caroline Bergman.

Mitchell Erlanger said that his brother had been divorced from Mrs. Adelaide Louise Erlanger Dec. 31, 1911. The divorce was granted by the Federal District Court in New York. Steuer said that Erlanger met the present Mrs. Erlanger 26 years ago. She was formerly Charlotte Fiscal.

From the Riverside Drive apartment Erlanger's body was taken to his brother's home on East Seventh street to await the funeral tomorrow, in Temple Emanuel on Fifth Avenue.

UNION PARKS PLAN IN CITY AND COUNTY APPROVED

Subcommittee's Proposal for Separate Department of Proposed Metropolitan Government Indorsed.

A recommendation that park and recreation functions of St. Louis and St. Louis County be unified in a separate department of the proposed metropolitan government for the whole area was adopted yesterday by the Parks and Recreation Committee of the Council on Metropolitan Government, meeting at the Lennox Hotel. It was one of a series of proposals of an Executive Subcommittee, all of which received approval.

Under this arrangement, the city would turn over the Parks and Recreation Division of its Department of Public Welfare to the new administration of the greater city, thereby achieving what many recreation specialists regard as advantages in meeting the needs of the community without reference to political boundaries. Park Commissioner Pape favors the proposal.

"I feel," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter, "this is the only way for the Parks and Recreation Division to make the progress which will be necessary to the welfare of the entire metropolitan area."

Pape's attitude is significant, since he is chairman of the Executive Subcommittee and a member of the Executive Sub-committee. "I feel," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter, "this is the only way for the Parks and Recreation Division to make the progress which will be necessary to the welfare of the entire metropolitan area."

Admiral Byrd's Men on Flagship Tidy Selves for Holiday Ashore; Dunedin Only Two Days Away

Members of Expedition at Last Realize Civilization Is Near and Scramble for White Shirts and Silk Socks.

By JOE De GANAH. The story is published exclusively in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All news items are copyrighted by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. It is a two-day run. The figures are into our senses and the bustle of preparation for what now seems one of the biggest days in our lives begins. Our position at noon today was latitude 66.12 degrees south, longitude 170.05 degrees east. The steamer Eleanor Bolling, the expedition's supply ship, was about 20 miles south of us.

Upon William C. ("Cyclone") Haines, our meteorologist, and Chris Braanth, seaman, ski man and dog driver, have fallen the duties of barbers and their protest that we are cheating the New Zealanders out of large profits has not diminished their business. "Why can't you fellows wait until you get ashore?" "Cyclone" exclaims to each new customer, but he has never yet turned one away. There are many plans afoot for our first few days ashore. They all call for extravagant luxury until we are all called back to the ship again.

Nearly everyone has sent messages to Dunedin for hotel accommodations. A long soak in a deep hot bath, clean clothes and then a full course meal with fresh fruits and fresh vegetables are common to all "liberty" programs. Many invitations to Byrd. To those of us it will be a unique holiday, but to Admiral Byrd it will be the start of official duties. Already he has been flooded with invitations, only some of which he will have time to accept. Even radio schedules bring a new list of requests for his presence.

His friends know that he has never been known to formal occasions and that he dislikes greatly having to make addresses, but after looking over the list of invitations from New Zealand, he said he was glad to have a chance to thank the people for their many courtesies to the expedition. Admiral Byrd had the strain of the last few months when many times it looked as if he might not be able to get his ship through the ice. The rest of us, who have not had the worry of navigating, are ready for a holiday, but there will be none for him.

JUSTICE HOLMES KEEPS HIS 89TH BIRTHDAY

Receives Congratulatory Messages From All Parts of the Country.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 8.—Only slightly bowed under the weight of his 89 years, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, today received congratulations on his birthday with a smile that was youthful in its spontaneity, and his firm, quick step made no concession to age. It was as far as his own arrangements were concerned, only another day to be spent in attending to pleasant duties. He had arranged to gather with his family in the familiar quarters of the conference room. The rest of the day was to be spent quietly. Mrs. Holmes died a few months ago.

The Senate paused in its consideration of the tariff bill to listen to a brief speech of tribute to Justice Holmes. Hardly had the Senate convened before Senator Walsh (Dem., Massachusetts), interrupted the discussion to call attention to the birthday anniversary of his distinguished fellow Justice. Walsh described the Justice as "one of the noblest and most patriotic members of the American Judiciary."

"Few men have been spared to give so many years of service to the nation," he added, explaining that Mr. Holmes had been on the highest courts of Massachusetts and on the Supreme Court of the United States for a total of 41 years. Walsh asserted that the jurist's "untrammeled legal opinions have made him a national figure" and praised him for his "vision, courage, courage, sympathy and liberality."

Senator La Follette (Rep.), Wisconsin, said he "subscribed to the beautiful tribute by Walsh" and placed in the Congressional Record an article on Justice Holmes in the current issue of Harper's Magazine. While Justice Holmes attached no particular significance to the day it did not go unnoticed by hundreds of friends and admirers all over the country. The stream of telegrams and letters sent to the phone calls began early in the morning and continued steadily through the day.

Justice Holmes today finished 27 years and three months on the Supreme bench. He was appointed by President Roosevelt, confirmed by the Senate on Dec. 4, 1902, and took his seat Dec. 8.

Known as a Great Liberal. Even before he took the oath, Justice Holmes was known to the legal profession as a master of jurisprudence and his work, "The Common Law," published in 1881, is still regarded as a classic. Whether he laid down there have been consistently followed by him on the bench. Known for his dissenting opinions in opposition to the views of his more conservative colleagues, his mastery setting forth of his conclusions have earned for him the title "the great liberal."

Son of Oliver Wendell Holmes, known to every school boy as the author of "The One-Horned Rhinoceros" and "Old Ironsides," Justice Holmes is the oldest man ever to serve on the Supreme bench, but his energy and clarity of mind does not suffer in comparison with any other member of the tribunal. He is the only member of the court who keeps careful notes on every development on court proceedings, whether it is argument of counsel or references to authorities cited.

Justice Holmes today had recovered from a slight cold he had a few months ago and his good health shows signs of continuing indefinitely. One of his few concessions to the years is that he does not leave his home at night. He still, however, has familiar figure or social functions in the daytime.

Grawski's COLUMN

How to Detect Foul.

THE London Daily Chronicle, deeply concerned over the baseball game's drift toward foul, suggests a sure way to detect low and other illegal blows. It advises the use of four movie cameras, one placed in each corner.

The cameras would not be the only thing in the corner after five minutes. There would also be a riot in each. Gentlemen and ladies who sloughed off $15 apiece for seats back of the said corners would incite the rebellions. It's pretty hard to see through four movie men and four cameras.

Aside from that, only a few slight details would have to be changed. For example, they might have to stop the fight while the camera man developed his film and then projected it on a screen for the referee to scrutinize. Or they might stop the show for the cameras to develop the decision in the morning papers after the film had been displayed.

Films might show a low blow. They could not reveal the extent of the damage done or the intent—and these are the points a referee must know, to rule fairly on disputed fouls for fouls.

Victims Cause Many Fouls.

THERE is an angle to fouling that the public seldom considers. That is the extent to which the victim is responsible for the foul. A defending boxer seeing his foe start a blow, steps back, but not quite far enough. The blow, aimed honestly, therefore lands lower than intended, because the distance was increased by the defending boxer's own act.

The blow is foul—who is to blame?

A defending boxer, on the other hand, steps forward to avoid a hook to his body. Instead of the blow landing on the short ribs it lands around on the defending boxer's hip and hits the scapular region, as in the case of Scott at Miami. The fighter crumples to the floor. Is it a foul? Is it a knockout?

Another case: Defending fighter tries to slap aside a body blow and deflects it foul. Who's responsible?

That Jumping Complex.

THERE have been fighters known to jump up on their toes and even jump upward when an opponent jumps up to the body. Naturally it goes foul. In this case the party fouled, the attacking fighter, should not be held responsible.

There ought to be certain latitude of judgment given to referees to settle such points. Hard and fast rules fail here. And one nation's rule condition should be laid down.

Where a foul is caused by a defensive motion of the party fouled, the attacking fighter should not be held responsible.

SCHWARTZ, BROWN AND CORNELL TO AID CHILE WALSH

Titus Cornell, Eddie Brown and Gene Schwartz, all members of last year's St. Louis University football eleven, will be named as assistants to Head Coach Chile Walsh during spring practices. It was reported at Buikens headquarters at the official announcement of the appointment is expected soon. These men, all of whom were regular linemen for three years, will also help coach the team next fall. Other players who graduated this spring have volunteered to assist Coach Walsh.

Paul Jones Wins.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 8.—Paul Jones last night won a heavy-weight wrestling bout over Sallor Jack Lewis of Dubuque, Ia., who quit after five minutes, for the second fall, after Jones had thrown him with a scissors and hammer lock. Lewis won the first fall in 20 minutes with a slam.

Gelbert and Cramer were out at third, Gelbert to Hunt. Tarr took second on a wild pitch. Myers threw out McNair.

CARDINALS—Jack Quinn went in to pitch for the Athletics. Bottomley flied deep to Miller. Roettger hit for Orsatti and was tossed out by Cramer. Quinn covering first. Gelbert tapped to Quinn.

EIGHTH INNING—ATHLETICS—Quinn struck out. Williams struck out. Summa walked. Schang lined out to W. Myers.

CARDINALS—Hunt flied to Summa. Manescu doubled to right. Grawski popped to Tarr. Douthett flied to Summa.

Hunt missed Tarr's grounder, and Cramer and Miller scored. McNair hit into a double play. Gelbert to Myers to Bottomley. TWO RUNS.

GRIFFITHS WINS OVER FRIEDMAN IN RETURN BOUT

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 8.—Gerald Griffiths (Tuffy) Griffiths, of Chicago, barely escaped being knocked out here last night while he was outpointing Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, in the Boston Garden 10-round feature bout.

The Badgers swept into prominence as a result of the trial last night in which they placed six men in the four events in which qualifying heats were run. The meet, however, promised to be a free-for-all affair with six teams, including Wisconsin, fighting for the championship honors. Ohio State, Michigan and Illinois threatened to become dangerous challengers.

This trial was the first since the championship trials at Madison Square Garden, N. Y., in 1925, when Griffiths won the title by a decision over Friedman.

For six rounds Tuffy and Friedman, clashing in a return bout, stood toe to toe, battering at each other with the best of both.

Griffiths was better double protecting the body than Friedman, but Griffiths' furious two-fisted attack to the body gave him the edge in each of these rounds.

At the opening of the seventh Friedman sprang from his corner and met Griffiths with a hard right to the body. He followed this with a series of lefts and rights and Griffiths was better double protecting the body than Friedman.

Griffiths was stronger in the eighth but he spent most of the round doubled up to escape body punishment.

During the final rounds both were weary but they kept banging away at each other in the center of the ring. During the final minute Griffiths sprang forward and wailed Friedman lustily about the body. Though Griffiths established a winning lead in the early rounds, the decision was not satisfactory to a large part of the audience.

SIMPSON MEETS TOLAN IN BIG 10 SPRINT FEATURE

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 8.—Wisconsin today ranged as favorite to win the indoor track and field championships of the Western Conference, up for decision in the University of Minnesota field house tonight.

The Badgers swept into prominence as a result of the trial last night in which they placed six men in the four events in which qualifying heats were run. The meet, however, promised to be a free-for-all affair with six teams, including Wisconsin, fighting for the championship honors.

Ohio State, Michigan and Illinois threatened to become dangerous challengers. This trial was the first since the championship trials at Madison Square Garden, N. Y., in 1925, when Griffiths won the title by a decision over Friedman.

Killefer Names Four Recruits Likely to Be Retained by Browns

By James M. Gould.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 8.—Today, before practice starts, Manager Bill Killefer of the Browns will hold his first meeting. In the course of it, he will outline his wishes and plans for the coming season. And there will be changes in these plans over those of a year ago.

There is no denying that Dan Howley was an "easy" man. There is no denying that advantage was taken by some of the players—the older ones—of Dan's good nature. Killefer was coach under Howley and saw all that went on. Today he will make it plain to all that, as a matter of fact, he is quite strict on discipline.

CURB PRICES MIXED IN CLOSING TRADE

NEW YORK, March 8.—Week-end profit-taking was well absorbed in today's short session of the curb market, and the bull crowd was able to push several of its favorites 1 to 4 points further into new high ground for the year.

A wide sprinkling of shares closed lower, but losses were for the most moderate. The utilities, which have been rather heavily sold of late, displayed a better tone.

Some of the investment trusts were again buoyant features. Lehman Corporation rose nearly 4 points to a new peak above 90. Goldman Sachs rose nearly 2 points, and the Blue Ridge Investment Trust was again firm. Shenandoah common was down a fraction in profit-taking.

United Light was a firm spot in the utilities, getting back above 40 with a gain of more than a point. American and Foreign Power were again firm. Shenandoah common was down a fraction in profit-taking.

Crocker Wheeler was a strong spot in the industrials, in sympathy with recent strength of electrical manufacturing stocks on the big board. The stock jumped more than 3 points, getting well above 70. American Chain, recently brought to the fore in response to favorable earnings, mounted a couple of points to a new 1936 peak.

Donald Engledow, 23, Admits Shooting Mrs. Tillie Miller and Her Adopted Daughter With Borrowed Gun Near Ironton, Mo.

ONLY WAY TO GET RID OF HER," HE SAYS

After Murder He Drove in Her Car to Her Garage in Granite City and Left Victims There—Her Husband Unaware of Affair.

Mrs. Tillie Miller, 29 years old, wife of a Granite City steel worker, and her adopted daughter, Helma, 6, were shot and killed near Ironton, Mo., at noon yesterday by Donald Engledow, 23, who left the bodies in Mrs. Miller's automobile and drove to Granite City, 105 miles away. The automobile containing the bodies was found in a garage, near the Miller home, at 4 p. m.

Engledow, son of an Iron County farmer and the father of two small children, was arrested in St. Louis at 8:30 last night and confessed the crime.

He killed Mrs. Miller, he said, because "it was the only way to get rid of her" after an affair which began about nine months ago when he was employed in a Granite City steel mill. He said that he did not know why he killed the child.

Slayer Used Borrowed Gun. The woman and child were shot down on a country road near Bellevue, an Osark hamlet about 10 miles from Ironton. In the presence of Mrs. John Daly, from whom Engledow had borrowed a shotgun, and her two children who knew the young man and his father who lived a short distance away.

"I tried to get away from Mrs. Miller for a long time," Engledow told Chief of Police Gerk at headquarters. "She kept bothering me and threatening me. She said she was going to knife me if I left her. I have a job promised in Chicago right now and she said she would get me wherever I went. She told me she knew gangsters in Chicago who would help her if I tried to get away."

"I went back home in December and got a job on a farm. She came down about two weeks ago and stayed a week with me in a rooming house at Ironton. Last Tuesday she made me come up here and rent a room."

Says She Purged Him. "Then she made me go back to Ironton. Friday afternoon, we spent the night in Ironton and yesterday she said we were going over to my father's and get the rest of my clothes. I was trying to think of how to get away when I thought of Mrs. Daly's shotgun and stopped the car."

"I told Mrs. Daly I wanted to shoot a rabbit and she lent me the shotgun. I went back to the car and opened the door. I said to Mrs. Miller: 'I've got to get away from you; I'm afraid of you.' I wasn't going to let her get away. I was afraid of her."

"She started to get out of the car and I pulled the trigger. She ran up on the lawn, through the gate, and I shot her again. She fell down and got up and I shot her a third time. I heard her say: 'God bless you!'

"Shot Girl to Keep Her Quiet. "I don't know why I shot the little girl. She had run up on the lawn behind me and I turned and saw her. I had made up my mind to take them back to Granite City and it seemed like I was afraid she was going to scream or make a fuss or the ride back. I guess I shot her to keep her quiet."

At Bellevue, Mrs. Daly related that Engledow walked to the automobile after the shooting, tossed the shotgun onto the seat, climbed in and turned the machine around so that it faced toward the St. Louis road. Getting out again, he picked up the child's body and placed it on the floor of the car. Returning, he picked up Mrs. Miller's body and forced it into the space normally occupied by the folding seat, which he tore away. Without a word, he entered the car and drove toward Highway No. 1.
